Quick Quiz

Wanna win big?

It’s fun and easy to play. And you really don’t need a big brain to win. Just do a little research, either on the Internet or otherwise, and you’ll be well on your way!

To enter the “Quick Quiz” trivia contest, submit your answer either via email to scott.albright@cleveland.edu or by calling extension 1714 for more options. The winner will be announced in the next issue. The deadline for all entries is Sept. 15.

Quick Quiz gives readers a chance to test their knowledge of pop culture, current events and other fun trivia tidbits. Every correct entry is eligible for more options. The winner is chosen randomly and wins big!

Hollywood’s ‘Boys of Summer’

It turns out that the month of July has produced three of Hollywood’s most popular and highest-grossing box office actors of all time. All born under the sign of Cancer, these Movie MVPs make almost every “Top 10” list ever compiled. And their movies and characters are arguably some of the most beloved to ever grace the silver screen.

Can you name them? (1) Born July 4th, he was a one-time outsider who has now become far and away a Hollywood legend; (2) Born July 9th, he made an early splash into the big time and is now in a league of his own; and (3) Born July 21st, he seized the day from the start and began to hook audiences with his good will.

Last issue’s winner

Dr. Kim Hamilton won last issue’s “Quick Quiz” contest. She correctly filled in the blanks on the following statement: The strawberry is the only fruit that has the _____ on the outside, and each strawberry has about _____ seeds. Also, the strawberry is actually not a true _____, and each of the seeds could be considered a separate _____.

The answers were: seed, hull form and fruit. She also got the extra credit right, naming Strawberry Point, Iowa, as the place to find the world’s largest fiberglas strawberry.

Good job, Dr. Hamilton! Stop by the Office of Communications to claim your prize, courtesy of Dr. Carl S. Cleveland III.

Cleveland celebrates Founders Day

Attendees of the 4th Annual Founders Day celebration at Cleveland Chiropractic College were engaged by a stellar collection of speakers from the profession. The June 11 special event served as an alternative learning experience for those pursuing the Doctor of Chiropractic (D.C.) degree. Founders Day featured Cleveland alumni and clinicians, as well as guests from outside the College, all gathering to share their knowledge with current students.

Dr. Clark Beckley, vice president of campus and alumni relations, welcomed the crowd of more than 320 students and special guests gathered in the Assembly Hall by sharing the itinerary for the day. He then introduced the kickoff presenters, Dr. Michael Persich ’99 and his wife, Jo Ann. The couple operates a thriving practice in Sedalia, Mo., and shared a variety of information with the crowd.

Students then dispersed into various breakout sessions based on their level of progress in the D.C. chiropractic curriculum. In her session, Cleveland graduate Danielle Hill ’14 shared her recent transition from student to doctor, and how to set a career course for success. Leading other breakout sessions were Cleveland alumni, Dr. Kyle Gallegos ’99, who shared his thoughts on chiropractic philosophy, and Dr. Kyle Rupp ’10, who offered guidance on how to develop an evidence-based practice.

Spired crowd converges on Kauffman Stadium

It’s been an almost limitless season for the Kansas City Royals, who took 38,000 cheering on their AL Central-leading Royals in a July 10, who offered guidance on how to develop an evidence-based practice.

Attendees of the 4th Annual Founders Day celebration at Cleveland Chiropractic College were engaged by a stellar collection of speakers from the profession. The June 11 special event served as an alternative learning experience for those pursuing the Doctor of Chiropractic (D.C.) degree. Founders Day featured Cleveland alumni and clinicians, as well as guests from outside the College, all gathering to share their knowledge with current students.

Dr. Clark Beckley, vice president of campus and alumni relations, welcomed the crowd of more than 320 students and special guests gathered in the Assembly Hall by sharing the itinerary for the day. He then introduced the kickoff presenters, Dr. Michael Persich ’99 and his wife, Jo Ann. The couple operates a thriving practice in Sedalia, Mo., and shared a variety of information with the crowd.

Students then dispersed into various breakout sessions based on their level of progress in the D.C. chiropractic curriculum. In her session, Cleveland graduate Danielle Hill ’14 shared her recent transition from student to doctor, and how to set a career course for success. Leading other breakout sessions were Cleveland alumni, Dr. Kyle Gallegos ’99, who shared his thoughts on chiropractic philosophy, and Dr. Kyle Rupp ’10, who offered guidance on how to develop an evidence-based practice.

T here’s arguably no better sports outing in Kansas City right now than a trip to Kauffman Stadium to watch the red-hot Royals play in defense of their 2014 American League Championship. That was made wildly apparent when tickets for the 13th annual “Cleveland Day at the Royals” event sold out in record time.

Then, on June 6, more than 450 Clevelanders – consisting of students, faculty, staff, alumni and their family and friends – converged on “The K” for the Royals game against the Texas Rangers. A capacity crowd of nearly 38,000 cheered on their Al Central-leading Royals in a rough contest that ended in a 4-2 loss.

In its 13th year, Cleveland’s Royals event is one of the most popular social events of the year, encouraging camaraderie among all Clevelanders. It features a catered tailgate party, complete with backyard barbecue favorites, ice-cold beverages and an afternoon of Royals baseball.

The atmosphere for every Royals game this year is electric because the fans know what this team can do,” Jalonna Bowie, director of student services, said. “This event is a great way to break up the rhythm of the daily grind and remind us of the bigger picture in our profession.”

Founders Day was conceived as a day to honor the founders of Cleveland Chiropractic College, and to motivate and inspire those pursuing a career in chiropractic. Visit cleveland.edu for an expanded version of this article and more photos.
late sister-in-law, Cynthia Garland, during a tree-planting ceremony on behalf of the Summer 2015 class of health management, adds a shovel of dirt after the Undergraduate Academic Achievement Awards Ceremony on June 5. Gathering for a photo after the Valedictorian Academic Achievement Awards Ceremony are (l-r) Luke Lambert, Charity Albee, Kristen Simpson (X) and Krista Simper (5). Several new faces populated the Cleveland campus on July 10, as the Office of Admissions welcomed a large group to campus for their Summer 2015 open house.

Open house held July 10

S

The event drew more than 70 visitors. Those who attended learned more about the educational programs Cleveland has to offer. Visitors came from throughout the Midwest and beyond. This included prospective students from Arkansas, California, Colorado, Iowa, Idaho, Illinois, Michigan, Missouri, Nebraska, Ohio, Oklahoma and Utah.

Following a light breakfast, the day began with a special presentation by Dr. Carl S. Cleveland III, president, who shared personal anecdotes as part of an introduction to chiropractic. It was a prelude to the afternoon’s breakout sessions.

Visitors were then broken into three groups, rotating every 25 minutes. The sessions included a stop in the Anatomy Lab, a mock adjusting demonstration and a student panel, where visitors asked questions of current students. Lunch was followed with a talk by Cleveland alum, Dr. Kyle Galludge ’09, who shared his practice experience.

Denton said the group remained interested throughout the day, seeking to build on their knowledge about Cleveland and the profession.

‘I met some of the most energetic and engaging prospective students and parents,’ Denton said. ‘From the initial presentation by Dr. Cleveland into the breakout sessions led by faculty, they were inquiring about next steps and housing.’

Overall, it was a positive day for both Cleveland students, faculty and staff are invited to enjoy a cool and refreshing outing to Kansas City’s Schlitterbahn Waterpark, where family and friends can splash the day away. Discounted tickets for the “2015 Summer Escape” waterpark event are available now in the Office of Student Services and under are free. Payment is due when you sign up for the event. Cash, check, debit or credit are all acceptable forms of payment. Visit schlitterbahn.com/kc/ for more information about the waterpark and its special events.

Schlitterbahn tickets on sale

The Summer 2015 commencement ceremony for Cleveland Chiropractic College will be held at 3 p.m., Thursday, Aug. 14, in the Assembly Hall. Thirty students have been confirmed for graduation. Robert Regnier, president of Bank of Blue Valley, will give the keynote address. Class representatives will make presentations, and Dr. Carl S. Cleveland III will give the charge to graduates. The President’s Banquet will be held at 5:30 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 13, in the Assembly Hall. That night, Clinic Excellence and Pi Tau Delta awards will be given and Dr. Cleveland will give a speech accompanied by an historical slideshow integrating Cleveland’s newest class of graduates.

Commencement to be Aug. 15