

Cleveland University

KANSAS CITY

Chiropractic and Health Sciences

CUKC Radiologic Technology Mission Statement

The Cleveland University-Kansas City Associate of Applied Science degree with a major in Radiologic Technology provides students with both the academic and technical foundations to competently and safely perform radiologic procedures, to prepare qualified imaging technologists who will ethically respond to the needs of patients with technical competence and compassion, and to assume a vital professional role as a medical team member.

Version: Nov. 15, 2021